

Round 2 — “Everyone’s a Suspect”

10:00 PM – 11:00 PM

Scene: Everyone’s inside. The party is over. The host opens, then turns the players loose to talk to each other. Move, pair off, trade alibis and secrets in conversation. Yes-and rule: if someone asks you something not on your card, play along; make it up consistent with your character.

- Your alibi: “At the party the whole time. I spoke with Val, then Marco, then Dex, then Pam.” List precisely. Too precisely.
- Share in conversation:
 - If anyone asks what you talked about with each person: hesitate for the first time. That hesitation is everything.
 - If Zane looks at you suspiciously, hold eye contact. Don’t flinch.
 - Do NOT reveal you’re a federal agent yet. Until your moment to stand up, stay corporate.
- Seek out: Sasha (you know about the envelope — get it), Zoya (she’s read every room she’s ever been in), Lorraine (she wants to talk to you).

Your moment to drive — standing up (around minute 20, federal stakes)

This beat is yours. The host does not cue it; you self-trigger. Around minute 20, when the corporate cover feels thin and the room is talking past the real stakes, you stand up, unprompted.

- Stand up. Drop the corporate persona — visibly. The buzzwords stop.
- Open the padfolio. Produce the federal badge. Produce the printed indictment list.
- Read aloud, evenly: “I’m not a consultant. IRS-Interpol joint task force. Paloma was my informant. She was going to testify against everyone in this room on Monday. Whoever killed her destroyed three years of work and saved every operation in this hotel.”
- Hand the indictment list to whoever is closest. Let it pass through the room. People will read names. Watch faces.

What follows (don’t prompt — let it land): - Sasha will step forward immediately with the sealed envelope. “Then I think you should have this.” She hands it to you. Take it. - Val drops her champagne glass. Zane: “Oh god.” Gloria: does not move. Doug: “Aw, hell.”

After this beat, you are no longer corporate. You are the federal agent in the room. Carry yourself accordingly for the rest of the night.