3. Your Character

Who You Are: Female | Late 50s | MINOR CHARACTER (Not a suspect)

Retired tax attorney. Eastern European background — you knew Paloma back in Moscow in the '90s when offshore finance was the Wild West. You “wrote the book on offshore trusts” and you’ve attended this conference annually for 30 years. Sharp, mobile, well-preserved. You sit at the bar with a cocktail and watch everything with the calm of someone who’s seen it all and judged most of it.

WHY YOU'RE NOT A SUSPECT

You were at the lobby bar from 7 PM to midnight. Six staff members confirm. You didn't leave your perch. You're alibied by pure stubbornness and good scotch.

WHAT YOU KNOW (REVEAL THROUGH CONVERSATION)

- You knew Paloma from Moscow. “When she’s about to do something stupid, she buys expensive vodka for everyone. Last three days? Buying vodka like she’s hosting her own wake.”
- You recognized Gloria from a Tampa bar association dinner years ago. “She was taking detailed notes on offshore shell structures. Most spouses tune out. She was taking notes like it was her job.”

- You saw Dex and Doug in an intense conversation at the bar around 8 PM. “They clearly knew each other from before. Odd friendship.”
- You noticed Paloma giving Irina a small package — a book. “They spoke Russian together. It was tender. Different from her other interactions.”
- CRITICAL (Round 3): You know Gloria is Marco’s mother. “I’ve known Gloria for thirty years. Marco is her son.” You also know about Diego — Gloria’s firstborn, killed two years ago.

QUESTIONS YOU CAN ASK

- To Dex: “How do you know The Duke? That didn’t look like a first meeting.”
- To Gloria: “Gloria, I never forget a face. Tampa bar association dinner, years back. You were taking very detailed notes on Cayman trust structures.”
- To Val: “Your father and I go way back. Does Giancarlo know what’s actually happening at this hotel?”
